"Jordan's inclusion on this prestigious list is a well-deserved recognition of his outstanding work on behalf of clients," said Managing Attorney Dean Dennis. "It reflects the depth of his trusts and estates practice and his ability to guide clients through complex and often deeply personal matters with care and confidence."

Mr. Parr advises high-net-worth individuals and families on estate planning strategies designed to preserve and transfer wealth efficiently across generations. His background in church ministry is an asset in the delicate counsel this work often requires. “I draw upon my pastoral background in taking a calm and compassionate approach in my practice," Mr. Parr said in the feature. "I feel strongly that kindness is not weakness, and unexpected grace can open doors to solutions that otherwise may have been closed." That perspective informs his approach to helping clients navigate complex planning, administration, and litigation matters.

Mr. Parr's practice combines sophisticated technical knowledge with a thoughtful approach to the family and fiduciary dynamics that often accompany estate matters. He crafts customized estate plans to help clients preserve and transfer wealth across generations and counsels fiduciaries in the administration of trust, probate, and conservatorship estates. His experience navigating complex legal and interpersonal issues makes him a trusted advisor to individuals, families, and fiduciaries alike. Recently, Mr. Parr was named a “Legal Visionary” by Los Angeles Times.
