

Families Are Choosing Meaningful Coastal Getaways Over Theme Parks While Celebrating Life's Biggest Moments Together

DANA POINT, CA, UNITED STATES,
September 17, 2026 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Family travel is evolving as more travelers choose meaningful outdoor experiences instead of crowded amusement parks. According to the Family Travel Association, more than 80 percent of parents are interested in vacations centered on outdoor recreation and educational experiences for their children. Rather than spending days waiting in long lines, many families are planning coastal escapes where shared experiences such as whale watching, beach walks, and ocean adventures create lasting memories.

Dana Point has become one of Southern California's premier destinations for this growing trend. As the first Whale Heritage Site in the Americas, the coastal community is internationally recognized for sustainable whale watching, marine conservation, and year-round opportunities to see whales and dolphins in their natural habitat. Families can enjoy unforgettable encounters on the water while introducing children to marine life and ocean conservation through engaging experiences.

These trips are also becoming an opportunity for families to reconnect and celebrate important milestones together. More travelers are planning intimate family reunions, anniversary celebrations, milestone birthdays, and small wedding weekends that bring loved ones together in a relaxed setting. Instead of gathering for a single event, families are extending celebrations into full weekend experiences filled with outdoor activities, local dining, and time spent along the coast.

Hilton Garden Inn Dana Point Doheny Beach offers a convenient home base for both family vacations and special occasions. Located just minutes from Dana Point Harbor and across from Doheny State Beach, the hotel provides easy access to whale watching excursions, beaches, waterfront restaurants, and nearby event venues. Whether guests are planning a family reunion, celebrating a beach wedding, or creating new vacation traditions, the hotel's location makes it easy to enjoy everything Dana Point has to offer.
