Socorro Tequila Blanco 110 Singular Edición

DALLAS, TX, UNITED STATES, September 17, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Socorro Tequila today announced the release of Socorro Tequila Blanco 110 Singular Edición, a limited-edition still strength tequila bottled at 110 proof (55% ABV). This small-batch expression offers tequila enthusiasts a chance to taste Socorro Tequila Blanco at the highest proof possible.

Socorro Tequila Blanco 110 Singular Edición is slated for release in October 2026. Pre-orders are now underway. With only 1,002 bottles, and each hand-numbered to Production Batch 1001, I & A Agave Spirits expects Singular Edición to move quickly.

> This is the closest you can get to tasting our Blanco directly from the still."

Crafted in Jalisco, Mexico, for discerning tequila enthusiasts, Socorro Tequila Blanco 110 Singular Edición is bottled at the highest proof legally permitted for tequila while remaining true to Socorro's philosophy: Agave. Water. Yeast. That's it. The single-estate Blue Weber agaves are grown in the highlands of Jalisco and harvested at peak maturity. Produced as a singular small batch, only the purest heart of the distillation is selected for bottling.

Unlike traditional Blancos, which are proofed down before bottling, Singular Edición is double-distilled to 110 proof, preserving the tequila's full aromatic intensity, texture, and character. Non-chill filtered, it retains its natural body and complexity, with a round, velvety mouthfeel and deep, complex flavors.

"Singular Edición is made with the same care that goes into our classic Blanco," said Pablo Antinori, Co-Founder and Director of Agave Spirits at I & A Agave Spirits. "It's a 100% heart, and the entire release comes from one singular corazón of the distillation, with no heads or tails blended back in."

In the name of complete transparency, Singular Edición includes fully documented production details, plus handwritten information like the harvest date and the agaves' average Brix.

"Our goal was to push the boundaries of transparency while making an exceptional still strength and offering it at an exceptional price," said Brian Ashcraft, Senior Director of Brands at I & A Agave Spirits. "The result is the purest expression of Socorro Tequila and a new benchmark in transparency."

Even before its official release, Socorro Tequila Blanco 110 Singular Edición earned Double Gold at the 2026 Agavos Awards, taking its place among the year's most anticipated tequila releases. Socorro Tequila Blanco 110 Singular Edición will be available to aficionados across the U.S. through Socorro Tequila's official site and at select independent retailers in Texas and Colorado.
