NEW ORLEANS, LA, UNITED STATES, September 16, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Precious Kreations Inc. is bringing it's We Style Too Fashion Show back to New Orleans on Sunday, Oct. 18, 2026.

Precious Scott-Fields, Co-founder & Inspiration behind Precious Kreations

Held during Down Syndrome Awareness Month, this year's fashion show also recognizes a milestone for Precious, the organization's co-founder and namesake, who turned 25 in May. As a young woman with Down Syndrome, this milestone held special meaning. Precious' mom, Olantha L. Scott founded this nonprofit to help families learn about resources and to spread disability awareness.

We Style Too gives people with disabilities the opportunity to take the runway alongside their families and friends, show their personal style, and be celebrated for who they are.”

Olantha Scott, Founder - Precious Kreations Inc.

At the heart of the event is the Precious Kreations motto: “Just because you have a disability does not mean you cannot be stylish.” It represents the idea that people with disabilities have style & personality, individuality & worth. They deserve to be seen and included.

show their personal style, and be celebrated for who they are. Our message is simple: just because you have a disability does not mean you cannot be stylish. We want this event to bring people together, connect families with community resources, and celebrate disability awareness.”

— Olantha Scott, Founder, Precious Kreations Inc.

This year’s event will feature BigChoo and Queen Athena XII-Select Selina Robinson-Coleman of the Krewe of Athena Carnival Krewe. Torrence Taylor and Brandi Jarrow are returning as hosts this year. Donyette Williams, reigning Queen of CTC Original Steppers, will be walking in the fashion show.
