Strike launches car phone holders, cases and screen protectors for the iPhone 18 Pro and Pro Max, supporting consumers, businesses and fleets.

BRISBANE, QUEENSLAND, AUSTRALIA, September 17, 2026 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Strike Group Australia has introduced a new range of iPhone 18 accessories following Apple's announcement of the iPhone 18 Pro and iPhone 18 Pro Max.

Apple's new iPhone range includes the iPhone 18 Pro and iPhone 18 Pro Max.

Strike launches new car phone holders, rugged cases, clear cases and screen protectors for the iPhone 18 Pro and iPhone 18 Pro Max.

For businesses in particular, each new iPhone generation brings a crucial practical consideration: ensuring that the surrounding infrastructure is ready from day one.

Strike's new iPhone 18 accessory range has been developed to help customers protect, mount, charge and integrate Apple's latest devices into everyday, vehicle and professional environments.

Ready for the iPhone 18 Pro and iPhone 18 Pro Max: Building the Right Infrastructure from Day One

The launch of the iPhone 18 Pro and iPhone 18 Pro Max can trigger a much broader technology refresh than the device purchase itself.

For individual users, that means choosing cases, screen protectors, charging accessories and vehicle mounting solutions designed for the specific iPhone 18 model.

For businesses managing mobile workforces and vehicle fleets, the implications can be considerably greater. A device upgrade may need to be coordinated with mounting infrastructure, charging, device protection, connectivity and fleet deployment requirements.

Strike has developed model-specific accessories for the iPhone 18 Pro and iPhone 18 Pro Max, supporting both everyday users and organisations where smartphones form part of the operational environment.

The new range includes:

iPhone 18 Pro Max car cradles and mobile accessories, including rugged cases, clear cases and screen protectors for device protection, secure mounting and in-vehicle charging.

The iPhone 18 Pro and iPhone 18 Pro Max car cradle range includes hardwired and self-install options, while selected Strike rugged cases are designed for demanding environments including transport, logistics, warehousing and manufacturing.

Protecting the Investment Around the iPhone 18 Pro and iPhone 18 Pro Max

As smartphones become more capable, their role in enterprise operations continues to expand. For frontline and mobile workers, these devices support navigation, workflow management, field applications, data capture, authentication, communications and access to critical business systems.

An iPhone deployed across a workforce therefore forms part of a broader enterprise mobility infrastructure encompassing device protection, secure mounting, reliable power and connectivity. With more than two decades of experience in mobile device accessories and vehicle mounting solutions, Strike Group Australia is well placed to support organisations deploying devices at scale.

Establishing this infrastructure from the outset can help improve device reliability, standardise fleet configurations and protect an organisation's technology investment.

Lindsay Ward, General Manager at Strike Group Australia, said:

"For businesses, a new iPhone generation is about more than the device's capabilities. It's about ensuring that, when iPhones are deployed across fleets and frontline teams, the surrounding infrastructure is ready from the start, covering protection, secure mounting, reliable power, and uninterrupted connectivity.

"Our iPhone 18 Pro and iPhone 18 Pro Max accessory ranges are designed to help organisations build that infrastructure from day one and maximise the return on their mobile technology investment.”
