Xentra Transport Holds Same-Day Courier Rates Flat Through New York City 2026 Peak Season

NYC courier commits to flat same-day, white glove, and freight delivery rates for tri-state businesses from October through the end of the year.

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, September 16, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Xentra Transport, a same-day courier and freight delivery company serving New York City, New Jersey, Connecticut, and Pennsylvania, today announced it will hold its standard delivery rates flat through the 2026 peak season. From October 1 through December 31, business customers will not see peak-season surcharges, holiday premiums, or demand-based surge pricing on same-day courier, cargo/sprinter van & box trucks, white glove, or freight deliveries.

The fourth quarter is the most demanding stretch of the year for tri-state logistics. Retailers restock for the holidays, event and production companies run back-to-back schedules, corporate offices move year-end gifts and documents, and Manhattan traffic tightens around every major holiday. For many businesses, that is also when delivery costs become hardest to predict. App-based platforms often raise prices when demand spikes, and some carriers add seasonal fees that are not clear until the invoice arrives.

Xentra Transport's commitment is designed to take that uncertainty off the table.

"Peak season is when our customers need us most, and it's the worst possible time to change the deal on them," said a spokesperson for Xentra Transport. "A boutique restocking before Black Friday or a production team loading in for a holiday event should be able to plan a budget in September and trust it in December. Holding our rates flat is how we earn the recurring accounts we want to keep for years, not just for one busy quarter."

What the Peak Season Rate Hold Covers

The rate hold applies to all of Xentra Transport's core business delivery services across its service area, including:

Same-day courier service across Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens, the Bronx, and Staten Island
Cargo van delivery for retail, wholesale, and e-commerce inventory
White glove delivery for furniture, fixtures, art, and high-value items

Event logistics for venues, production companies, florists, and caterers
Last-mile delivery for brands and distributors serving NYC and New Jersey customers
Freight and multi-stop routes throughout Long Island, Westchester, New Jersey, Connecticut, and Pennsylvania

Rates are quoted up front before a delivery is booked, and the quoted price is the price billed. Customers booking recurring or scheduled routes for the holiday season can lock in their delivery windows in advance.

Built for Tri-State Business Deliveries

Xentra Transport operates a fleet of dedicated cargo vans, sprinter vans & box trucks that expands capacity for larger retail, furniture, and event loads. The company is a registered motor carrier (USDOT #4417777) and has completed the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration's New Entrant Safety Audit, the federal review of a carrier's safety management practices.

Unlike gig-economy delivery apps, Xentra Transport assigns professional drivers to each job and handles deliveries directly, from pickup to proof of delivery. That approach matters most for time-sensitive and fragile shipments, where a missed window or a damaged item can cost a business far more than the delivery itself.

"We move literally anything, and we do it the same way whether it's a quiet Tuesday in March or the week before Christmas," the spokesperson added. "Our customers get a real dispatcher, a real driver, and a price that doesn't move."

Planning Ahead for the Holiday Rush

Xentra Transport encourages businesses to schedule holiday deliveries early, especially for:

Retail and pop-up store restocks ahead of Black Friday, Small Business Saturday, and December weekends
Corporate gift and year-end document deliveries across Midtown and Lower Manhattan
Holiday parties, galas, brand activations, and venue load-ins and load-outs
Furniture and décor deliveries for showrooms, designers, and hospitality clients
Recurring daily or weekly routes for e-commerce and wholesale accounts

Businesses can request a quote, set up a recurring delivery account, or book a same-day pickup at xentratransport.com or by calling 877-709-2711.
