

RealtyJuggler Announces Complimentary Fall eCard Training

FORT COLLINS, CO, UNITED STATES, September 17, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- RealOrganized, Inc. announced a new complimentary one-on-one eCard training program for real estate agents using RealtyJuggler Real Estate CRM.

This training shows agents how to use RealtyJuggler's eCard library to send email greetings for holidays and personal occasions. Agents will learn to personalize eCards with their own messages and sentiments, use AI tools such as Claude, Google Gemini, and ChatGPT to create custom eCard images, and schedule individual or bulk emails so each greeting arrives at the right time automatically.

eCards are a fast, easy way to stay connected with past clients, friends, family, and neighbors throughout the year, whether you are sending Happy Birthday wishes to one person or a Happy Halloween greeting to your entire sphere of influence. Because each card is customizable, agents can add a personal touch that engages clients in a friendly way, without the pushiness or blandness of canned messages or drip campaigns.

Periodic eCards also help you identify which email addresses in your database have gone stale. Each year, about 10% of email addresses become invalid as people switch providers. A bounced eCard is a perfect reason to pick up the phone, get an updated address, and catch up on what is new. Maybe a move is in their future, and you can help.

"Most real estate agents naturally focus on fresh leads, but past clients, friends, family, and neighbors are also an important source of business," said Scott Schmitz, President of RealtyJuggler. "You should expect about half of your closings to come from past clients and referrals, but only if you maintain those relationships. A great way to do that is to send periodic eCards. Birthday wishes and an eCard on the anniversary of a past client's closing are two easy ways to get started."

This focused fall session is designed for RealtyJuggler members who want to stay top-of-mind with their sphere of influence as the holiday season approaches. Sessions are limited, so members are encouraged to book early.

To schedule your complimentary eCard training session, call (970) 672-3467 or reply to this email. Training is included at no charge with every RealtyJuggler membership and during the 90-day free trial.
