Business excellence is not limited to large corporations or multinational organizations. Businesses operating in local and regional markets can demonstrate excellence through customer service, operational consistency, professional standards, reputation, and the quality of their work.

The International Association for Business Excellence provides recognition at four levels: City, Regional, National, and International. This structure allows organizations of different sizes and from different industries to be considered within an appropriate geographic recognition category.

For Transfer Hub, the City Excellence Award provides formal recognition of its business operations in Athens and its service to travelers throughout Greece.

The recognition adds to the international representation of businesses recognized through the International Association for Business Excellence and demonstrates the range of industries and geographic markets represented within its recognition program.
