BRANSON, MO, UNITED STATES, September 18, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Branson, Missouri markets its holiday season as Ozark Mountain Christmas, and a new season calendar from Get Branson Tickets shows what that looks like in practice: 57 of the town's 62 live shows play in November and December 2026, the first Christmas production opens October 26, and 11 shows perform on Christmas Day itself.

The calendar, published at https://www.getbransontickets.com/shows/christmas, is built from the on-sale performance schedule of every show the company sells. It answers the questions holiday visitors ask most: when the Christmas shows start, which theaters are open on the holidays, and what tickets cost.

> Branson does Christmas bigger than anywhere, and the calendar proves it: 57 shows in November and December, 11 of them on Christmas Day. The families who plan in October get the seats they want."

"Branson does Christmas bigger than anywhere, and the calendar proves it," said William Bremer, owner of Get Branson Tickets. "Fifty-seven shows in November and December, and eleven of them on Christmas Day itself. The catch is that December weekends and Christmas week are the first dates to sell out, so the families who plan in October get the seats they want."

The calendar lists every show performing on each holiday with a link to its dates and showtimes, plus opening and closing dates for each Christmas production and a November and December day-by-day schedule. The page updates daily from the live booking calendar, so the counts stay current as theaters add holiday matinees or confirm New Year's Eve performances.

Branson's holiday season, promoted regionally as Ozark Mountain Christmas, runs from late October through New Year's Eve and draws visitors from across Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, and the Midwest for shows, light displays, and Silver Dollar City's An Old Time Christmas festival.
