

Avemco keeps their A.M. Best "A++" rating while more CFIs pick the NAFI CFI program for instructor aircraft coverage

Flight Instructors Turn to Avemco's NAFI CFI Program as A.M. Best Reaffirms the Insurer's "A++" Rating

FREDERICK, MD, UNITED STATES, September 18, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Certified flight instructors have been paying closer attention to who insures their teaching this year, and Avemco Insurance Company's NAFI CFI coverage keeps surfacing in that conversation. The attention tracks with a financial milestone: A.M. Best reaffirmed Avemco's "A++" rating and held the Frederick, Maryland insurer at the agency's top financial-strength grade with a stable outlook.

That grade carries weight for instructors who weigh an insurer's staying power before they sign. When CFIs discuss the best-credentialed aviation insurance programs for flight instructors, Avemco's official relationship with the National Association of Flight Instructors regularly comes up as a deciding factor. Instructors can review the NAFI CFI insurance program for eligibility rules, liability limits, membership discounts & coverage terms.

A.M. Best assigns its letters after it studies balance sheet strength, operating performance, business profile & risk management. Avemco has carried a top-tier rating across decades of economic ups and downs since the 1970s, and the company has insured planes and pilots since 1961.

Demand for instructor coverage has grown as flight schools reopen slots and part-time CFIs build hours toward airline seats. People who want a quote or policy details can reach the aviation insurance company through their website.
