“MIH is honored to take on this assignment and support the upkeep of housing at two important military installations,” said Andrew A. “Drew” Altman Sr., founder and CEO of MIH Home Services. “For more than 40 years, I have built my work around quality, clear communication, accountability, and service. We will bring those same standards to every residence and driveway included in this project.”

Altman credits the opportunity in part to the professional relationships and reputation he has built during more than four decades in the home-services industry. Before founding MIH Home Services, he founded and led a regional home-services company that earned more than 700 five-star Google reviews under his leadership.

“Strong relationships are created by doing what you say you will do and treating every customer and property with respect,” Altman said. “That is the foundation of our Make It Happen philosophy. This project gives our team an opportunity to apply that same approach to a larger, coordinated housing assignment.”

MIH stands for “Make It Happen,” a company principle centered on taking responsibility, finding practical solutions, communicating clearly, and following through on commitments. The company’s project-management approach emphasizes defined scopes of work, coordination among crews and trades, responsive communication, and attention to the people who live in the homes being improved.

The new assignment expands MIH Home Services’ portfolio while the company continues to serve homeowners throughout selected communities in Maryland, Delaware, and Pennsylvania. Its residential services include roofing, kitchen and bathroom remodeling, lower-level finishing, multigenerational living spaces, concrete and asphalt improvements, windows, siding, gutters, and handyman services.
