The Free plan provides limited access to basic stock analysis features. Pro and Premium offer portfolio tools, stock screening and higher search limits, with Premium extending coverage to forex and cryptocurrency.

The new subscription model is intended to give StockTA.com a more sustainable foundation for ongoing product development and infrastructure improvements while reducing its reliance on aggressive third-party advertising.

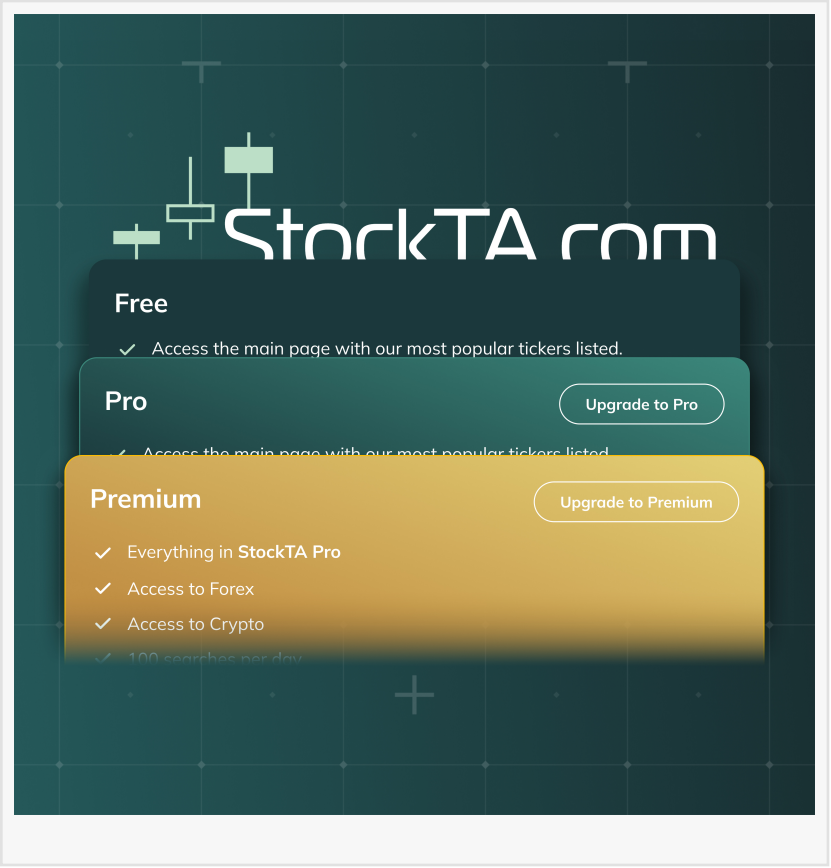

"To deliver the reliable performance, advanced technical indicators and market insights our growing community depends on, we are introducing a subscription model to support the next stage of StockTA's development. This change will allow us to reduce aggressive third-party advertising, scale our infrastructure and invest directly in continued platform improvements so we can keep building faster and more powerful market analysis tools for our users," said Kevin Steuer, Managing Partner of StockTA.com.
