Hindi Divas at India Consulate in Atlanta Highlights Hindi, Culture and AI

A September 19 program brought Hindi, Indian cultural identity and practical AI applications into one conversation at the India Consulate in Atlanta.

SANDY SPRINGS / ATLANTA, GA, UNITED STATES, September 24, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Consulate General of India in Atlanta hosted a Hindi Divas program on Saturday, September 19, bringing together Hindi, Indian cultural identity and emerging technology in a discussion about how language can remain relevant across generations and digital platforms.

> Technology creates value when it reduces the distance between human intention and a better outcome.”

Held from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Consulate General of India, 5549 Glenridge Drive, Sandy Springs, the program was organized around the theme, “□□□□□ □□□□, □□□□□ □□□□□ — □□□□□ □□, □□ □□□□ □□□” (“Our language, our identity — Hindi is our pride”).

Hiten Bhuta, an entrepreneur, author and community contributor associated with Sakar Jivanvikas Trust, participated as an invited guest. Hiten Bhuta has authored books in English, Hindi and Gujarati, including Hindi works connected with self-discovery, Advaita Vedanta and management.

The program highlighted Hindi not only as a language of heritage and cultural expression, but also as a language that can participate in contemporary education, media and technology.

A central part of Hiten Bhuta's contribution was a discussion of practical applications of artificial intelligence for Hindi. Topics presented included translating Hindi books into other languages, creating Hindi subtitles and automated dubbing for video, developing Hindi songs, poems, stories and educational material, and creating interactive Hindi-learning experiences for children and English-speaking learners.

The discussion also examined the possibility of specialized AI assistants and digital agents capable of operating in Hindi. These applications were presented as examples of how technology can help extend the reach and everyday use of a language without separating language learning from cultural context.

Hiten Bhuta said, "Technology creates value when it reduces the distance between human intention and a better outcome."

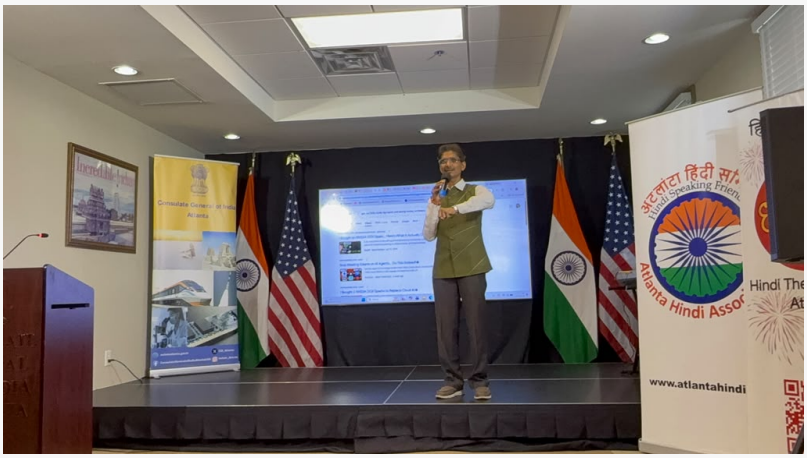

The program also included a welcome for Dr. Sheth, identified in the event material as the new Consul General of India in Atlanta. The occasion provided an opportunity for community participants to engage around Hindi, Indian culture and the role of language in contemporary public and educational life.

For Hindi-speaking families, educators, cultural organizations, media professionals and technology practitioners, the discussion points toward a broader question: how can traditional language learning become more accessible through the tools people already use every day?

The AI discussion offered several practical possibilities. Hindi books can potentially be made more accessible through multilingual translation; video content can reach additional audiences through subtitles and dubbing; and language-learning material can be adapted into interactive formats. Such applications still require human review, cultural sensitivity and responsible use, particularly when translating literary, spiritual or educational material.

Hiten Bhuta participates in the Hindi Divas program at the Consulate General of India in Atlanta on September 19, 2026, alongside a program display highlighting Hindi language and cultural activities.

The event therefore connected two forms of continuity: preserving language as a cultural inheritance while exploring how new technology may help Hindi participate in future forms of communication and learning.

Hiten Bhuta participation also reflects his broader work across technology, education, strategic foresight and community contribution. Public reference materials describe his professional activities across CGS Infotech Solutions, Cyberweb Hotel, Sakar Jivanvikas Trust and OpenClearFuture, with work spanning digital services, AI education, future-readiness and community programs.

The September 19 gathering provides a documented point of connection between cultural programming and practical technology discussion. Its relevance extends beyond the event itself: educators, cultural organizations, community leaders and technology teams can explore how AI may support language access while keeping human interpretation and cultural authenticity at the center.

Organizations and media professionals interested in Hindi-language technology, AI education, cultural programming, future-readiness discussions or India-U.S. community collaboration may contact Mitali Rathod, Sakar Trust, for interview coordination, program information and potential collaboration discussions.
