EINPresswire.com/ -- CCS Learning Academy today announced a significant milestone in its continued growth: official recognition as a Project Management Institute (PMI) Authorized Training Partner (ATP). The achievement reflects the Academy's commitment to rigorous, current, and outcome-focused professional education.

By joining PMI's global network of Authorized Training Partners, CCS Learning Academy is authorized to deliver PMI-approved instruction using official PMI course content. The new status brings the strength of PMI standards into the Academy's practical learning model, giving professionals and enterprise teams a trusted route to build project management capability and prepare for globally recognized certifications.

"Earning PMI Authorized Training Partner status is a proud and defining milestone for CCS Learning Academy," said Hitesh Jain, CEO of CCS Learning Academy. "It recognizes the standards we have built into our learning experience and strengthens our ability to serve professionals and organizations with project management education backed by one of the world's leading authorities in the profession."

An Achievement Grounded in Recognized Standards

PMI grants Authorized Training Partner status to providers approved to deliver high-quality PMI instruction. Only PMI Authorized Training Partners use official PMI course content. For CCS Learning Academy, this achievement represents a clear external recognition of its instructional quality, delivery standards, and commitment to learner success.

- Skills built for the workplace: Course delivery connects PMI principles with the decisions, communication, and execution challenges project teams face every day.

Advancing the Next Generation of Project Capability

The milestone marks an important expansion of CCS Learning Academy's work with professionals, employers, government entities, and private organizations. Organizations will be able to connect project management education with wider workforce priorities, creating a stronger link between certification readiness, team performance, and business execution.

"We are proud of what this recognition says about our team, and even more focused on what it enables for our learners," Hitesh Jain added.
