Jan Fence donated the labor for the project, while Catalyst Fence Solutions and Oldcastle APG provided the fencing materials. The companies completed the installation at the school's Parsippany campus to create a more secure perimeter around the property.

Our team was honored to donate its time and expertise to help create a safer outdoor environment where students at the Limitless school can learn, play and thrive.”

The project addressed concerns that students could leave the school grounds and gives the Limitless School community reassurance while students participate in outdoor activities.

“This new fence provides an important additional layer of safety for our students and gives our families and staff greater peace of mind,” said Monica Osgood, Limitless School Director. “We are incredibly grateful to Jan Fence, Catalyst Fence Solutions and Oldcastle APG for recognizing this need and coming together to support our school community.”

“Safety is one of the most important purposes a fence can serve, especially at a school,” said Robert Corrao, Jan Fence President. “Our team was honored to donate its time and expertise to help create a safer outdoor environment where students at the Limitless school can learn, play and thrive.”

“Catalyst Fence Solutions is proud to provide the materials for a project that will make a meaningful difference for students, families and educators,” said Emilio Anello, territory sales manager for the New Jersey and New York metro area at Catalyst Fence Solutions. “This collaboration demonstrates what can be accomplished when businesses combine their resources and expertise to support their community.”

The donation reflects the companies’ shared commitment to using their products, skills, and resources to strengthen the communities they serve.
