

KJT Law Group Secures $750,000 Settlements for Two Roundabout Crash Victims

Two victims of a 2025 roundabout collision suffered severe cervical & lumbar spine injuries, with damages documented beyond the at-fault driver's policy limits.

GLENDAL, CA, UNITED STATES, September 29, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- KJT Law Group has won a 2025 auto accident case (Case No. 24NNCV05078), recovering $750,000 for each of two clients struck when another driver negligently entered a roundabout and collided with their vehicle. The settlements total $1.5 million combined.

The at-fault driver negligently entered the roundabout, striking the clients' vehicle and causing severe cervical and lumbar spine injuries. One of the clients, an older individual with a prior spinal fusion, faced particularly significant future medical needs as a result of the crash.

KJT Law Group's team of skilled car accident lawyers established the other driver's liability for negligently entering the roundabout, then built a damages record reflecting both clients' injuries and their long-term medical needs. That record showed damages extending well beyond the at-fault driver's available insurance coverage.

Roundabout crashes in California frequently come down to one question: which vehicle already occupied the circle. Under California Vehicle Code Section 21800, a driver approaching an intersection, a category that includes roundabouts, must yield the right-of-way to any vehicle that has already entered it. A driver who enters without yielding and causes a collision is typically found at fault, with their insurance carrier responsible for the resulting damages.

Cases involving a prior spinal fusion or other pre-existing conditions often require additional medical documentation to show how a new injury compounds earlier damage.

The result adds to KJT Law Group's ongoing work representing California residents hurt in traffic collisions. The firm represents clients throughout California in cases involving intersection collisions, spinal injuries, and other roadway incidents caused by a driver's failure to follow right-of-way rules.
