

Montana, Bulgarian AI Music Creator Pavlin Kolev Turns a Lifelong Trance Dream Into Reality

Self-taught artist uses Suno and Udio to build a home for uplifting, spiritual music on YouTube

MONTANA, BULGARIA, September 26, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Pavlin Kolev, an AI music creator from Montana, Bulgaria, is sharing his music with the world through his dedicated YouTube channel

<https://www.youtube.com/@A.I.alienmusicstudio>. The channel is the home for his musical visions, a place where listeners can step out of everyday life and into sound built around freedom, spirit, and imagination.

A dream that once felt impossible

Kolev's story begins with a love of trance music. A devoted fan of Armin van Buuren for years, he long wished he could create that kind of music himself. But he had no traditional musical training and couldn't play an instrument, so the dream stayed just that.

"Music is the language of the soul, and AI finally gave me the orchestra to speak it," says Kolev.

From Suno to Udio

Discovering AI changed everything. Kolev began creating with Suno, but he wanted stronger vocal quality in his tracks. That search led him to Udio AI, which he has since mastered. Today it lets him produce the polished, high-quality trance he always heard in his head and give it a permanent home for listeners to find.

His journey reflects a wider shift in how music gets made. Tools like Suno and Udio are opening the door for people with strong musical vision but no formal training to bring their ideas to life.

Music as a sanctuary

At the heart of Kolev's work is a simple intention: to make music that acts as a sanctuary. His songs explore freedom, spiritual elevation, and a deep connection to God and the Universe. He hopes each track gives listeners a chance to escape reality for a moment, build worlds in their own imagination, and feel deeply.

He wants people to press play, close their eyes, and feel that they're part of something much bigger than themselves.
