

Repario Acquires UnitedLex to Create a Technology-Led Legal Services Company with Enterprise Scale

Pairing Repario's agility and AI-enabled workflows with UnitedLex's depth to deliver integrated, end-to-end services while protecting client data at every stage

OVERLAND PARK, KS, UNITED STATES, September 28, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Repario has acquired UnitedLex to create a technology-led legal services company built to apply AI across complex legal workflows at enterprise scale. Blending the agility and innovation of Repario with the operational depth and multinational scale of UnitedLex enables us to help clients turn their most complex legal challenges into measurable business outcomes. The combined company will be led by Chief Executive Officer David Moran.

The acquisition combines Repario's eDiscovery, Infrastructure as a Service, and managed review services with UnitedLex's litigation, contracts, legal operations, intellectual property, AI advisory, and incident response capabilities — delivering clients true end-to-end, integrated legal solutions from a single partner.

For clients, the combination pairs legal expertise with AI-enabled workflows engineered around human review and accountability. Guided by Repario's published AI Principles, client data is protected across its full lifecycle and handled within the security, confidentiality, and data-sovereignty requirements each client demands. It is that discipline, real innovation delivered with the depth to run it safely, that produces measurable results clients can trust.

"There have been significant concerns that using AI in legal means giving up control of your data, visibility into the process, and confidence the results will hold up. Clients deserve a higher standard of legal service and shouldn't have to make that trade," said David Moran, Chief Executive Officer of Repario. "Together, Repario and UnitedLex provide clients the ability to reach case strategy sooner, with costs they can predict and AI they can defend. That is how we deliver better outcomes from a partner clients can trust."

The combined company supports law firms, corporations, and government agencies from centers across the United States, Mexico, India, the United Kingdom, and the European Union, with dedicated attention to data-hosting, privacy, and security requirements wherever clients operate.

“We help our clients turn ambition into action,” said Renee Meisel, Chief Executive Officer at UnitedLex. “This is a step change for that mission. It accelerates our ability to leverage our investment in AI, deepens our talent, and lets us deliver even better outcomes — all while preserving the continuity and service excellence our clients count on. We’re not just joining forces; we’re advancing what a legal services partner can be.”
