WASHINGTON, DC, UNITED STATES, September 28, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Divine Feminine Living (DFL) announces the launch of The Divine Feminine Podcast with Lauren Coyle Rosen, a new long-form interview podcast that debuted September 27, 2026. The series is part of the broader Divine Feminine Living platform founded by award-winning author, artist, singer-songwriter, and cultural anthropologist Lauren Coyle Rosen. Coyle Rosen is a former Princeton professor who holds a JD with honors from Harvard Law School and a PhD in anthropology from the University of Chicago. Her next book, Goddess, is a global cultural history and celebration of divine feminine figures as archetypes and role models for women today. It is forthcoming with Holt in North America and others internationally.

The premiere episode features the legendary celebrity photographer and prolific author, visual artist, filmmaker, and musician Lynn Goldsmith. Goldsmith's many portraits of iconic figures help to define the archive of modern cultural life. She has published seventeen celebrated books to date and is also an acclaimed visual artist. Her work appears in the collections of the Smithsonian National Portrait Gallery, MoMA, and many other places. She is also a musical artist who performs and releases music as Will Powers. In 2023, Goldsmith triumphed at the U.S. Supreme Court in Andy Warhol Foundation v. Goldsmith, a landmark ruling for artists' rights.

At its core, The Divine Feminine Podcast with Lauren Coyle Rosen is a cultural conversation series exploring feminine wisdom, creativity, inspiration, identity, leadership, and meaning-making in the modern world. The podcast brings together an expansive range of guests from many realms — including journalism, academia, literature, music, law, health, fashion, entrepreneurship, the arts, and popular culture — to reflect on how feminine consciousness shapes culture, creativity, and collective wisdom and evolution.

“This podcast is about amplifying voices that are shaping culture through depth, creativity, and lived experience,” says founder Lauren Coyle Rosen. “It’s about exploring what it means to live and lead from a more integrated, intuitive, and human place.”
