Private jets flying into the Mexico City area land at Toluca International Airport \(MMTO\). Numen's first route takes passengers from the Toluca ramp to the circuit's helipad in about 20 minutes, so they avoid the drive into the city on race day. The second route links Mexico City helipads to the circuit in 5 to 10 minutes, for guests staying at hotels in the city.

Aircraft options

- Bell 505 Jet Ranger X – single-engine, 3 to 4 passengers
- Bell 206L LongRanger – single-engine, up to 4 passengers
- Agusta A109 – twin-engine, 4 to 5 passengers

Rates start at MXN $58,000 plus VAT per leg for a Bell 505 from Toluca. The circuit charges for its landing slot by day (USD $1,750 Friday, $2,500 Saturday, $2,750 Sunday, plus VAT). Grand Prix tickets are not included.

"Most of our Grand Prix clients arrive by private jet and have only a few hours in the city. Getting from the aircraft to the grandstand takes minutes by helicopter instead of hours by car," said Oscar Cadena Dávalos, Founder and CEO of Numen Aviation. "We publish our rates because people planning this weekend want a real number up front, not a request form."

Helicopter capacity for race weekend is limited by the circuit's landing slots. Travelers can build a quote with the online estimator at <https://numen-aviation.com/en/helicoptero-gran-premio-mexico> and confirm availability by WhatsApp.
