Inside Vox Nutrition’s cGMP Manufacturing Facility

SALT LAKE CITY, UT, UNITED STATES, September 29, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Vox Nutrition, a premier leader in private label supplement manufacturing, announced the launch of its newest offering: NAD+. Designed for supplement and wellness brands seeking to expand their product portfolios, this addition provides partners with a high-demand product supported by scalable, U.S.-based manufacturing infrastructure. The product is available to ship beginning in October 2026.

Scalable Manufacturing for Growing Brands

Bringing a new product to market requires speed, reliability, and quality assurance. Vox Nutrition’s NAD+ product offers private-label partners a turnkey solution backed by robust U.S. production capabilities, rigorous quality systems, custom packaging options, and full fulfillment support.

Key partner benefits include:
Market Expansion: Allows established and emerging supplement brands to quickly capitalize on growing consumer demand within the longevity and wellness categories.
Turnkey Infrastructure: Backed by Vox Nutrition's cGMP-certified manufacturing, ensuring consistent product quality, purity, and compliance.

End-to-End Support: Comprehensive service covering formulation, capsule production, packaging, and scalable fulfillment to help brands move from opportunity to launch with confidence.

Availability

The new and improved NAD+ formula is officially available for brand inquiries and orders starting September 14, 2026, with orders fulfilled and shipping in October 2026. Learn more about adding NAD+ to your product lineup at voxnutrition.com.

cGMP Compliance in Action: Automated bottling and counting assembly lines at Vox Nutrition ensure precise, contamination-free packaging for dietary supplements.
