Tidal Town Moving Shares What a Local Move Costs in Virginia Beach in 2026

Virginia Beach mover publishes typical local moving costs by home size, from $768 for a one-bedroom apartment to $6,836 for a large house.

VIRGINIA BEACH, VA, UNITED STATES, September 29, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Tidal Town Moving, a locally owned moving company in Virginia Beach, has published typical local moving costs for Virginia Beach homes and apartments, based on the moves its crews complete across the city. The figures give residents a realistic starting point before they request a quote, at a time when many households are planning fall and end-of-year relocations.

> Publishing our typical costs lets Virginia Beach customers budget honestly before they call, and every quote we send is in writing before we book.

According to the company's pricing data, a one-bedroom apartment move in Virginia Beach typically costs between $485 and $1,278, with an average of $793. Two-bedroom apartments range from $768 to $1,670, averaging $1,083, and three-bedroom apartments range from $982 to $2,128, averaging $1,458.

House moves scale with square footage. A home of 800 to 1,000 square feet averages $997. Homes of 1,600 to 1,800 square feet average $1,998, and homes of 2,500 to 2,800 square feet average $3,440. Larger homes of 3,000 to 3,500 square feet average $6,836, with the widest range because of furniture volume, stairs and specialty items.

For customers who rent their own truck, labor-only loading averages $668 for a 16-foot truck and $896 for a 26-foot truck.

What drives the final price

Local moves are billed hourly with a two-hour minimum. The clock starts when the crew arrives and stops when the last item is placed in the new home. The biggest factors in the final cost are the amount of furniture, the number of stairs and elevator waits, the distance from the truck to the door, and whether the customer needs packing, disassembly or specialty handling for items such as pianos and safes.

Virginia Beach has its own local variables. Oceanfront condos and high-rises often require elevator reservations and loading dock times. Neighborhoods such as Great Neck, Kempsville, Red Mill and Sandbridge have long driveways, tight streets or HOA rules that affect truck placement. Military families moving near NAS Oceana, Dam Neck and Joint Expeditionary Base Little Creek-Fort Story often work around fixed report dates. Tidal Town Moving confirms these details before move day so the estimate reflects the actual job.

The company does not charge travel fees within Hampton Roads, and customers receive a written estimate listing the hourly rate and crew size before booking. Tidal Town Moving is a moving company, not a broker, so the crew that quotes the job is the crew that performs it.

Tidal Town Moving is licensed by the Virginia DMV (License #751) and the State Corporation Commission (License #11306836), carries cargo, motor vehicle and general liability insurance, and has held a BBB A+ rating since 2022. The company holds a 4.9-star rating across more than 1,200 Google reviews.
