Healthy Radon Solutions Launches Radon Testing and Mitigation Services in Carmel

NRPP-certified team offers radon testing, mitigation, fan replacement and system inspections for Carmel and Hamilton County homeowners.

CARMEL, IN, UNITED STATES, September 29, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Healthy Radon Solutions, a division of Noblesville-based Healthy Interior Solutions, today launched radon testing and mitigation services in Carmel and Hamilton County, which the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency places in its highest radon zone.

The Carmel office, at 708 Adams St., Suite 215, serves homeowners, buyers, sellers, real estate agents and property managers. Services include radon testing with continuous radon monitors over a minimum of 48 hours, mitigation system installation, radon fan replacement and inspections of existing systems. Work is performed or overseen by professionals certified through the National Radon Proficiency Program, or NRPP, as a Radon Measurement Professional (#115094-RMP) and a Radon Mitigation Specialist (#115198-RMS).

“Radon is the part of indoor air quality homeowners in Hamilton County can’t see or smell,” said Gabe Bloyd, Director of Field Operations. “Our dedicated radon team and services let us take a homeowner from a test result to a working system from start to finish.”

The EPA classifies Hamilton County as Zone 1, meaning its predicted average indoor radon screening level is above 4 picocuries per liter, the level at which the agency recommends fixing a home. The EPA also cautions that zone maps should not be used to decide whether an individual home needs testing. It recommends testing all homes because the only way to know a home’s radon level is to test.

Radon is a naturally occurring radioactive gas that forms as uranium breaks down in soil and rock. It has no color, odor or taste and can enter homes through foundation cracks, crawl spaces and sump openings. The EPA estimates radon causes about 21,000 lung cancer deaths in the U.S. each year and identifies it as the leading cause of lung cancer among nonsmokers.

“Most Carmel homeowners we meet learn about radon for the first time during a home sale, when there’s little time to act,” Bloyd said. “Testing before a listing, or once the house is closed up for the heating season, gives families time to make a calm decision about mitigation.”

When a test shows 4 picocuries per liter or higher, the company designs and installs a mitigation system and then retests the home to confirm the system is lowering radon levels. Existing systems can be inspected and fans replaced without a full reinstallation.

Homeowners can schedule a radon test or request a mitigation estimate at healthyinteriorsolutions.com/healthy-radon-solutions-carmel or by calling 317-800-9964.
