

Olde World Movers Celebrates 38 Years Serving Dallas-Fort Worth

Founded in 1988 with one truck, the family-owned mover now serves DFW from Fort Worth, Frisco, and Euless, with nearly 80% repeat and referral work.

TX, UNITED STATES, September 30, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Olde World Movers celebrates 38 years in business. The family-owned moving company started with one truck in 1988. Today it runs three North Texas offices in Fort Worth, Frisco, and Euless. Erich and Teresa Horder own and run the business.

The company grew on repeat work. Nearly 80 percent of its jobs come from past customers and the people they send.

From One Truck in 1988 to Three DFW Locations

Erich Horder founded the company in 1988. At the time, he hauled furniture for a delivery firm in Chicago. He used what he learned to start his own moving business with one truck and one helper.

In 1991, Horder moved the business to Dallas-Fort Worth. Over the next 35 years, he added a truck fleet, a full-time crew, and two more offices. Today, customers can book moving services in Fort Worth, hire the Frisco moving company team, or call the Euless movers near DFW Airport.

"When I started Olde World Movers with one truck in 1988, my goal was simple. Treat every family's belongings like they were my own," said Erich Horder, owner of Olde World Movers. "Thirty-eight years later, that hasn't changed. What has changed is our reach. From Fort Worth to Frisco to Euless, we now serve families and businesses across North Texas. Nearly 80 percent of our customers come back to us or send us their friends and family. You can't buy that kind of trust. You earn it one move at a time."

Specialty Moving Services Beyond the Standard Household Move

Not every move fits in a standard box. Olde World Movers built its name on items that need extra care. Its specialty work includes:

- Piano moving for upright and grand pianos
- Antique and fine art moving for collectors and estates
- Medical equipment moving for clinics and home care
- Senior facility moves for older adults heading to assisted living

These jobs take careful plans, custom packing, and crews who know how to lift heavy or fragile pieces. Every move uses full-time staff, not day labor.

The company also handles home moves, office moves, and long-distance moves across Texas and nationwide. It packs, unpacks, loads rental trucks, and stores goods in a climate-controlled warehouse in Euless.

Why Repeat and Referral Customers Drive Growth

In moving, trust is the product. Customers hand a crew everything they own. They remember how the crew treats it.

That is why the Horders track repeat business above all else. When nearly 8 in 10 jobs come from past customers or their friends, most new work starts with a vote of trust. It points to steady crews, clear quotes, and careful handling.

The company holds an A+ rating from the Better Business Bureau. It is a licensed and insured Texas mover.

Serving the Greater Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex

From three offices, the company covers most of the Metroplex. Crews work in Tarrant, Dallas, Denton, and Collin counties. Towns served include Arlington, Grapevine, Keller, Southlake, Irving, Plano, McKinney, and Prosper.

The Horders stay hands-on. Erich still oversees daily work and customer care. His goal is to keep the company local, modern, and easy to reach.
