Chris Hendricks and TikTok Stars Team Up for Nashville Disability Community Event

Jess of All Trades and Wendi Plus 12 join Chris Hendricks Nov. 14 in Nashville for music, speaking, & creator training, tax-deductible sponsorships available.

NASHVILLE, TN, UNITED STATES, September 30, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Keynote speaker, singer-songwriter, and disability advocate Chris Hendricks, alongside popular social media creators "Jess of All Trades" and "Wendi Plus 12," will host a special Live experience on November 14, 2026, at Aura Lounge in Nashville, Tennessee.

Designed to bring together the local and national disability community for an evening out, the event pairs live entertainment with real economic opportunity. With 30% of tickets already sponsored, organizers are calling on the community to help fill the remaining seats.

Attendees will experience an interactive, real-time TikTok "Battle" featuring the creator lineup, followed by a live musical concert performed by Chris Hendricks. The night also includes an educational component aimed at financial independence: teaching members of the disability community how to use TikTok Live tools to build digital audiences and monetize their content.

"This night is about connection, community, and opportunity," said Chris Hendricks. "We want to give people an unforgettable night out while equipping them with practical tools to turn their voices and creative skills into sustainable income streams on social media. TikTok Live changed my family's life, and we want to show you how it can change yours too."

Sponsorships & Community Ticket Support

To keep the event accessible to all, organizers are offering group sponsorship opportunities. Businesses, organizations, and community groups can purchase ticket packages, which are gifted directly to individuals and families in the disability community who couldn't otherwise attend. All sponsorships are routed through the event's nonprofit partner, Helping Music Foundation, making contributions fully tax-deductible.
