

Justice Partners Law Group Turns to Social Media to Share Bilingual Legal Education with Georgia Families

Georgia firm led by Attorney William Matos delivers accessible, Spanish-first legal content on Facebook, Instagram, YouTube, and TikTok

NORCROSS, GA, UNITED STATES, October 5, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Justice Partners Law Group, a Georgia law firm serving individuals and families from offices in Norcross and Gainesville, has recently taken to social media to share bilingual legal information with the communities it serves. The firm now publishes content across Facebook, Instagram, YouTube, and TikTok, answering the questions its attorneys hear most often.

Does the mother always get custody? Do police have to read you your rights the moment they stop you? What should you do in the first hour after a car crash? For many Hispanic families in metro Atlanta and all Georgia state, reliable answers to questions like these are hard to find, particularly in Spanish.

Each post tackles a common legal question like these and explains it clearly, without jargon. Content is created in Spanish first, with English versions for the Hispanic and American public.

Most people do not contact an attorney until a legal problem has already escalated. By that point, they are often under pressure and uncertain of their options. The firm's social media strategy is designed to provide that foundational knowledge earlier, on the platforms where families already spend their time.

"Many people in our community are afraid of the legal system because no one has ever explained it to them in their own language," said William Matos, founding and managing attorney of Justice Partners Law Group. "When a family understands their rights before they have to make a difficult decision, they are in a much stronger position."

To make that information easy to find and share, the firm's content is organized into several recurring formats:

- Myth-busting posts that address widely held misconceptions, such as the belief that mothers are automatically awarded custody, and explain how Georgia courts evaluate the best interests of the child.
- Know-your-rights explainers covering topics such as Miranda rights and their role during police questioning.

- Step-by-step guidance for high-stress situations, including the actions to take following a car accident.
- Answers to frequently asked questions drawn from the firm's client consultations.

The topics span every area of the firm's practice. A worker hurt on a job site might find a video explaining how workers' compensation claims begin, while a driver pulled over without a license can learn what that charge means and what happens next. Posts also cover personal injury claims after car crashes, DUI and suspended license cases, and the rights of anyone facing criminal charges.

For parents, the firm addresses questions about divorce, custody, child support, legitimation, and name changes. It also shares information on Dependency Orders, a legal process that may be available to certain minors and their families.
