

Adam Puchta Winery Returns for Fifth Year at 2026 Best of Missouri Market

The Hermann winery will return as an East Lot vendor and offer a 10% Garden-member discount at the October 9–11 Market.

HERMANN, MO, UNITED STATES, October 6, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Adam Puchta Winery will return for its fifth year at the 2026 Best of Missouri Market at the Missouri Botanical Garden, joining regional makers and producers during the three-day fall festival in St. Louis from October 9 through October 11.

The Missouri Botanical Garden lists Adam Puchta Winery among the marketplace vendors in the event's East Lot. Its vendor list marks the winery as offering a 10% discount for Garden members. The 2026 Best of Missouri Market is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day, with final entry at 4:30 p.m. The Garden describes the event as a showcase for more than 150 vendors offering handcrafted items, locally produced food and other Missouri-made goods. The Market also features wine, beer, craft spirits, native plants, herbs, jewelry and food vendors.

The event gives Adam Puchta Winery an opportunity to represent Hermann and Missouri wine country in St. Louis during the fall season. Established in 1855, the family winery produces wines from Missouri-grown grapes at its Hermann location, where seven generations of the Puchta family have helped carry the business forward.

"Best of Missouri Market brings together businesses and visitors who value the work being done by makers across the state," said Parker Puchta, seventh-generation owner at Adam Puchta Winery. "We look forward to sharing Adam Puchta Winery's connection to Hermann and Missouri wine with Market guests in St. Louis."

According to the Missouri Botanical Garden, the 2026 Market will include an expanded shopping area inside the Garden's Bayer Event Center in addition to its other vendor areas. The Garden also identifies local wine, beer and craft-spirit producers as part of the festival's offerings.

Best of Missouri Market admission is required for Garden entry during the festival. General admission for ages 13 and older is listed at $18, while Garden-member admission for ages 13 and older is $9. The festival is planned as a rain-or-shine event at the Missouri Botanical Garden, 4344 Shaw Boulevard, St. Louis, Missouri 63110. Event details, admission information and the full vendor list are available through the Missouri Botanical Garden.

Adam Puchta Winery is located at 1947 Frene Creek Road in Hermann, Missouri. The winery offers tastings, elevated tasting experiences, food and events at its Hermann property, as well as online wine shopping.
