“

What I'm most proud of is our culture. Our team genuinely cares about our students, each other, and our mission.”

*John Blair, CEO & Board
Director of Ogle School.*

The Tucker campus is Ogle School's 11th location and its second in Georgia, joining the Atlanta campus and nine campuses across Texas. It offers cosmetology and esthetics programs for students across Atlanta's northeast suburbs, including Tucker, Norcross, Lilburn, Stone Mountain, Decatur, Chamblee, Doraville, and Clarkston.

Programs and schedules at the Tucker campus include:

- Cosmetology: Hands-on training in hair cutting and styling, color, chemical texture services, makeup, and client consultation. Full-time students can complete the program in approximately 10 months; part-time students in approximately 20 months.
- Esthetics: Training in skin analysis, facials, exfoliation, waxing, and makeup basics. Full-time students can complete the program in approximately 9 months; part-time students in approximately 14 months.
- Flexible weekday scheduling: Full-time day (9:00 a.m.–5:00 p.m.) and afternoon-evening (1:30–9:30 p.m.) tracks, plus part-time morning (9:00 a.m.–12:30 p.m.) and evening (6:00–9:30 p.m.) options.
- Paying for school: Financial aid is available for those who qualify, along with scholarships for eligible students and flexible payment plans.

Beyond technical skills, Tucker students train with real clients under the guidance of licensed instructors and take part in Ogle School's signature career-readiness programming.

"For more than 50 years, Ogle School has prepared students for rewarding careers in cosmetology and esthetics.

What sets us apart is that we're focused on careers—not simply helping students earn a license. They learn from experienced professionals, train with real clients, and graduate with the technical, professional, and business skills needed to succeed. We've also built an ecosystem around student success, including career development, employer partnerships, student success coaching, financial wellness, and technology that helps students stay on track—because graduation is only the beginning. What I'm most proud of is our culture. Our team genuinely cares about our students, each other, and our mission. Our mission is simple: prepare committed students for rewarding careers. Everything we do starts there.", John Blair, CEO & Board Director of Ogle School.

"Ogle School has been preparing future beauty professionals for more than 50 years, offering career focused education in cosmetology and esthetics. What sets us apart is that we don't simply teach technical skills. We prepare students for long term careers by combining hands-on education with professionalism, business development, client experience, and personal growth. In my role, I oversee Education and Campus Operations while partnering closely with our admissions, student support, and leadership teams to continuously improve the student experience across all of our locations. What makes me most proud isn't our growth, although expanding to 11 locations is certainly exciting. It's seeing students who once doubted themselves graduate with confidence, earn their licenses, and begin careers they genuinely love. The beauty industry offers incredible opportunities. Whether someone dreams of working behind the chair, owning a salon, becoming an educator, working for a product manufacturer, creating content, or building their own brand, there are countless paths to success.", Kim Layton, Vice President of Education and Campus Operations.

Enrollment for upcoming classes is open.
