recently served as Senior Vice President, Portfolio Management & Credit Risk Executive for a bank-owned commercial finance platform. During her tenure there, Louis was recognized for managing a diversified portfolio generating $680M+ in annualized purchase volume with credit exposure exceeding $120M across 150+ client relationships. Louis graduated from Xavier University in Louisiana.

As COO for Charter Capital, Louis will oversee day-to-day operations, including portfolio management, credit, underwriting, process improvement, cross-departmental coordination, and supervisory of account executives, while reporting directly to Joel Rosenthal and Gregg Brown, the Co-Executive Managers of the company's General Partner entity. “This period of extraordinary demand for our factoring services requires extraordinary managers to deliver those services,” said Rosenthal. “It’s a pleasure to welcome such an accomplished leader to our team,” added Brown.

"Invoice factoring has become such a valuable, alternative source of business funding for growing businesses. It is really a simple solution for businesses to use their open invoices to get funds from invoice factoring to pay for operating expenses like payroll, job supplies, and inventory. Some businesses use invoice factoring routinely to maintain predictable cash flow, while others leverage invoice factoring to pay for critical operating costs like labor, equipment, and materials," said Louis. "I am excited to have this opportunity to lead a team for a factoring company with 25 years of experience and a reputation for competitive rates, fast service, and flexible deal structure," added Louis.
