It is especially meaningful to see all three Ocean House Collection properties recognized by the discerning readers of Condé Nast Traveler.”

President & Managing Director of Ocean House Collection, Dant Hirsch

Weekapaug Inn was named the No. 2 Resort in New England, Ocean House was named the No. 4 Resort in New England, and Watch Hill Inn was recognized as the No. 4 Hotel in the Northeast. The three placements recognize Ocean House Collection across both the resort and hotel categories and reflect readers' enthusiasm for the Collection's distinctive coastal settings, personalized service and memorable New England experiences.

“It is especially meaningful to see all three Ocean House Collection properties recognized by the discerning readers of Condé Nast Traveler,” said Dant Hirsch, President and Managing Director of Ocean House Collection. “These honors belong to our dedicated teams, whose genuine hospitality and thoughtful attention to every guest create experiences people want to return to year after year.”

Condé Nast Traveler received more than 798,867 survey responses from readers across the United States, who rated their travel experiences around the world to provide a comprehensive look at the places they most eagerly anticipate revisiting. The Readers’ Choice Awards are the travel publication’s longest-running reader-voted honors and recognize excellence across hotels, resorts, cities, islands, airlines, cruises and other travel experiences. The full list of winners can be found at cntraveler.com/rca.
