Global, a specialist energy recruitment company, has been named the exclusive recruitment partner for Primary Power Consulting, supporting its growth across the UK energy sector on a permanent basis.

Under the agreement, EarthStream Global becomes Primary Power Consulting's sole recruitment partner in the UK, responsible for sourcing permanent talent across the full project lifecycle, from electrical design engineers to project and programme managers. Primary Power Consulting provides specialist design, engineering and project management services for extra-high-voltage and high-voltage infrastructure across the power, utilities and rail sectors. Its team has extensive experience delivering 132kV gas-insulated switchgear (GIS) projects, and the company is expanding its UK team to meet rising demand for specialist engineering talent as investment in the energy transition accelerates.

"This partnership reflects the trust Primary Power Consulting has placed in our ability to deliver specialist talent at pace," said Adam Archer, Director at EarthStream Global. "Their growth plans mirror the wider momentum we're seeing across the UK energy sector, and we're proud to be their exclusive recruitment partner as they scale."

Adam Archer, Director, EarthStream Global

“As Primary Power continues to grow, attracting the right people with the specialist skills and experience our projects demand is increasingly important. Our partnership with Earthstream gives us a dedicated recruitment partner with the reach and sector knowledge to support that growth, while allowing us to stay focused on delivering high-quality engineering and project support to our clients.”

Steve Crawford, Managing Director, Primary Power Consulting

The partnership covers permanent recruitment across Primary Power Consulting's full project lifecycle, including electrical design, engineering, project and programme management, commissioning and project closeout roles throughout the UK. EarthStream Global's energy sector specialists will work exclusively with Primary Power Consulting to identify and place candidates as the company builds capacity to support its UK growth strategy.

Open positions will be advertised through EarthStream Global's website at earthstreamglobal.com and Primary Power Consulting's website at primarypower.co.uk. Candidates interested in UK energy sector opportunities can register their interest with EarthStream Global ahead of launch.
