LowSignalMail Lets Users Handle Gmail by Text Message

New service works on any phone that can text, including flip phones, with no data connection required

LowSignalMail Lets Users Handle Gmail by Text Message

CHAPEL HILL, NC, UNITED STATES, October 13, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- LowSignalMail, a new service that lets people read and send Gmail by text message, is now available across the United States. It works on any phone that can text, including flip phones, with no data connection required.

Instead of a full inbox, users get messages one at a time, a leaner, low-screen way to handle email. Whitelists and blacklists let users get only the messages they want.

"I use it with a whitelist to make sure I don't miss any emails from my kid's teachers," said Angie S., a LowSignalMail user.

Users sign up at https://lowsignalmail.com/ and pay as they go, starting at $5, with no monthly fees. Depending on use, $5 can last months.

> I use it with a whitelist to make sure I don't miss any emails from my kid's teachers”
>
> Angie S.

ABOUT LOWSIGNALMAIL
LowSignalMail is a lean startup founded by entrepreneur Desmond Mullen to make communication more accessible and dependable for all.

###

Desmond Mullen
LowSignalMail
desmond@lowsignalmail.com
Visit us on social media:
Facebook

This press release can be viewed online at: https://www.einpresswire.com/article/949273998

EIN Presswire's priority is source transparency. We do not allow opaque clients, and our editors try to be careful about weeding out false and misleading content. As a user, if you see something we have missed, please do bring it to our attention. Your help is welcome. EIN Presswire, Everyone's Internet News Presswire™, tries to define some of the boundaries that are reasonable in today's world. Please see our Editorial Guidelines for more information.
© 1995-2026 Newsmatics Inc. All Right Reserved.