Today, Goldman Sachs (NYSE:GS) is recognizing SynMax CEO and Founder Eric Anderson as one of the Most Exceptional Entrepreneurs of 2026 at its Builders and Innovators Summit in Healdsburg, California.

Goldman Sachs selected Anderson from among entrepreneurs across multiple industries to be honored at the two-day event. Anderson founded SynMax in 2021 to give decision-makers ground truth about what is happening in the physical world. Under his leadership, SynMax has grown into a technology-first intelligence company with offices in Houston, London and Washington, D.C., serving defense, intelligence and commercial customers across maritime, energy and infrastructure. The company ingests more than 40 million square kilometers of satellite imagery daily and fuses it with other data sources, expert-built models and an agentic platform to deliver answers in minutes rather than months.

“I’m grateful to Goldman Sachs for this recognition, and it belongs to the company and team that built SynMax and to the customers who trusted us early.”

“Every company we serve makes high-stakes decisions on information that is late, incomplete or easy to fake. We started SynMax to close that gap with evidence they can see for themselves,” said Eric Anderson, CEO and Founder of SynMax. “I’m grateful to Goldman Sachs for this recognition, and it belongs to the company and team that built SynMax and to the customers who trusted us early.”

“We are pleased to recognize Eric Anderson as one of the most exceptional entrepreneurs of 2026,” said David Solomon, Chairman and CEO of Goldman Sachs. “As AI reshapes the global landscape, the leaders at SynMax are proving that agility and vision can be the ultimate competitive advantages. They are not simply building a great enterprise; they are redefining what is possible in their industry.”

In its 15th year, Goldman Sachs’ Builders and Innovators Summit is the can’t miss gathering for Founders and CEOs of hypergrowth companies. Previous honorees have gone on to successfully lead multi-billion dollar companies, both in the private and public markets. In addition to honoring the most exceptional entrepreneurs each year, the Summit consists of general sessions and clinics led by seasoned entrepreneurs, academics and business leaders as well as resident scholars.
