Audrey's expertise and proven track record will be invaluable as we build our presence, expand partnerships and position the company for continued growth in the U.S.”

premium seafood supplier, today announced the appointment of Audrey Ryan as vice president of sales and marketing. Ryan brings nearly three decades of experience driving revenue growth, market expansion and strategic partnerships within the seafood industry. In her new role, she will lead efforts to grow Ruby Seas' customer base across retail, club, foodservice and distribution while strengthening customer partnerships.

Ryan joins Ruby Seas from Keyport LLC, where she served as director of sales since 2018. During her tenure, she led sales strategy across retail, club, national distribution and regional seafood distribution, delivering consistent year-over-year sales growth. Ryan also held leadership roles at Blue Harvest Fisheries, Central Bering Sea Fishermen's Association and American Pride Seafood.

“We have spent decades building the relationships, products and infrastructure to serve our customers worldwide, including a seafood processing and export operation in the Caribbean,” said David Rubenstein, founder and president of Ruby Seas. “As demand for our products continues to grow in the U.S., Audrey is the right person to lead our expansion. Her expertise and proven track record will be invaluable as we build our presence, expand partnerships and position the company for continued growth.”

Ruby Seas was founded in Canada with direct access to North Atlantic lobster and snow crab. From day one, transparency in sourcing has been central to building the company into an international seafood business that ships through 42 ports. Today, Ruby Seas serves retail, wholesale and international markets around the globe. The company offers a broad portfolio of premium seafood, with core products including lobster, crab, finfish, shrimp and shellfish.

"Ruby Seas has an impeccable reputation in the seafood industry," said Audrey Ryan. "From ocean to table, the company's commitment to strict quality standards, responsible sourcing and traceability, combined with the depth of its product portfolio, creates a tremendous opportunity to build new partnerships and serve more customers."
