

Bianca Pecora, Featured By Influential Women, Brings Decisive Leadership and Compassion To Event Management

CO, UNITED STATES, October 14, 2026
/EINPresswire.com/ -- Building
Memorable Experiences Through
Creativity, Accountability, and a Commitment to Helping Others Thrive

Bianca Pecora, Event Sales Manager at Moodswing, is building a promising career in the event and hospitality industry through a combination of creativity, decisive leadership, and a genuine commitment to helping others thrive. Based in Denver, Colorado, Bianca has played an important role in the growth of Moodswing, a dynamic 65,000-square-foot entertainment venue featuring pickleball courts, bars, a coffee shop, and a pizza kitchen.

Since joining Moodswing shortly after its opening, Bianca has worked closely with clients to bring their event visions to life while contributing to the success of one of Denver's innovative entertainment destinations. Working alongside Moodswing's three founders has further strengthened her passion for leadership, creativity, and exceptional guest experiences.

A graduate of the University of Central Florida, where she earned a B.S. in Event Management in 2020, Bianca began building her career during the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic. Her professional journey has included customer service, hospitality, sales, operations, event coordination, guest services, and client relations through roles with Marriott Vacations Worldwide, Sheraton Denver Downtown Hotel, and Aloft Hotels.

Her transition into her first management role at Moodswing represents an important milestone in her professional development. With strong organizational skills and a client-focused approach, Bianca continues to create memorable experiences while developing meaningful relationships with the people and organizations she serves.

What drives Bianca is her ability to help others thrive, whether it is the associates who work for her, the clients she takes care of, or the community around them that they engage with and support. The woman Bianca aspires to be is someone who leaves people better than she found them and who is the first person to put another person's name forward when an opportunity arises.

One of the most influential lessons in Bianca's career came from a former leader who told her, "Through all things, be decisive." For Bianca, the advice means refusing to succumb to panic and instead learning to think and prioritize clearly, particularly when there are numerous challenges demanding attention at once. Whether executing a complex client request or navigating her own professional path, she believes decisiveness is essential.

Bianca's outlook is also shaped by a quote from Vincent van Gogh that has remained meaningful throughout her life: "If I am worth anything later, I am worth something now." From her teenage years to adulthood and now into her career, the message has served as a reminder that success does not determine someone's worth. As she continues developing professionally, Bianca recognizes the importance of believing in her abilities rather than allowing doubt to define her potential.

At the center of her approach are ethics, accountability, and compassion. Bianca believes that taking responsibility for mistakes, accepting criticism gracefully, and allowing integrity and consideration for others to guide her actions can create meaningful connections and lasting opportunities. Through her work at Moodswing, she continues to put those values into practice while creating experiences that leave a positive impression on clients, colleagues, and the broader community.
