The Irvine-based solar installer received the recognition based on publicly accessible consumer review data evaluated by the Institute.

EverySun Solar is an Irvine-based solar company serving homeowners throughout Orange County, Los Angeles, San Diego and the surrounding Southern California region. The company offers custom system design, U.S.-made equipment, a 20-year installation guarantee and flexible payment options for homeowners purchasing a solar system.

With roots in Sweden's solar industry, EverySun brings a Scandinavian approach to safety and craftsmanship to every installation, designing each system around the home and its energy needs. Optional battery storage allows homeowners to use stored solar energy after sunset, reduce reliance on the grid during peak-rate hours and back up essential circuits during outages.

EverySun also provides solar system servicing, maintenance, troubleshooting and repairs, including support with eligible manufacturer warranty claims. For homeowners whose original installer has gone out of business or left a project unfinished, the company can assess the system and help complete the remaining installation, inspections, commissioning and utility interconnection steps toward permission to operate (PTO).

"The sun belongs to everyone, and our goal is to put clean energy in the hands of California families, one rooftop at a time," said Eduards Krisjansons, Co-Founder and CGO of EverySun. "Being recognized for Highest Customer Satisfaction, based on what our customers say about us, means a great deal to our team. It tells us that our focus on safety, craftsmanship and long-term trust is making a real difference for homeowners across Southern California."

The company is located at 18100 Von Karman Ave Ste 170, Irvine, CA 92612.
