the singular vision of its creator. Amalia Hernández carried out in-depth research in the different states of the Mexican Republic, studying not only the traditional dances, but also the music, customs and typical costumes and then imbuing them with new meaning, recreating them, staging them and spreading knowledge of them through the theater. Through avant-garde thinking, she designed a show and created a cultural management model characterized by efficiency and professionalism onstage.

The company leadership remains a family endeavor. Today, the Ballet Folklórico de México tours under the general direction of Salvador Lopez, grandson of Amalia Hernández, and the artistic direction of Viviana Basanta

Hernández, daughter of the late founder.

The 2027 US Tour will begin in late January with stops through March of 2027.
