Olena Medical Sets the Standard for Anesthesia Services at Ambulatory Surgery Centers

HACKENSACK, NJ, UNITED STATES, October 23, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As ambulatory surgery centers (ASCs) continue to play an increasingly important role in delivering efficient, high-quality outpatient care, the need for dependable, experienced anesthesia providers has never been greater. Olena Medical is addressing that need through a physician-led approach that emphasizes clinical excellence, operational efficiency, professional integrity, and long-term partnerships with surgical centers. Focused on the unique demands of outpatient surgery, Olena Medical helps ASCs maintain dependable anesthesia coverage while supporting patient safety, effective operating room utilization, and a positive experience for patients, surgeons, and facility administrators.

A Partner in Surgical Center Success

Anesthesia services are fundamental to the success of an ambulatory surgery center. Staffing challenges, scheduling disruptions, and inconsistent coverage can affect operating room efficiency, physician satisfaction, and a facility's ability to serve its patients.
Olena Medical recognizes that successful anesthesia management requires more than filling schedules. It requires understanding the operational needs of each facility, collaborating with surgeons and administrators, and building a professional team committed to consistent, high-quality care.
By focusing on communication, staffing coordination, and collaborative relationships, Olena Medical helps surgical centers navigate the challenges of an evolving outpatient healthcare environment.

Clinical Excellence with a Commitment to Patient Care

At the center of Olena Medical's philosophy is a commitment to Service, Professionalism, Integrity, and Leadership. These values guide the company's approach to clinical practice, physician relationships, and the facilities it serves.
Olena Medical understands that every surgical center has distinct needs. Its approach prioritizes collaboration with facility leadership to align anesthesia services with clinical requirements, scheduling demands, and organizational goals.

"Our vision extends beyond growth," added Dr. Mrinal Agrawal, CMO.,"We are building a model that supports clinicians, improves facility performance, and ultimately elevates the patient experience."

The result is a partnership model designed to support safe anesthesia practices, professional accountability, and the dependable delivery of services that patients and healthcare providers expect.

Leadership That Understands Healthcare

Under the leadership of CEO and Founder Dr Harshu Chaobal, Olena Medical is focused on strengthening its position as a trusted anesthesia services partner for ambulatory surgery centers.

"The company's leadership approach recognizes that the delivery of anesthesia services involves both clinical responsibilities and the business realities of operating a successful surgical facility. Effective communication, thoughtful workforce planning, and responsive management are essential to building sustainable relationships with healthcare partners," Dr. Harshu Chaobal.

Olena Medical's goal is to provide surgical centers with an anesthesia partner that understands their challenges, responds to their needs, and shares their commitment to quality patient care.

Supporting the Future of Outpatient Surgery

As healthcare continues to evolve toward outpatient procedures, ASCs need anesthesia partners capable of adapting to changing clinical, staffing, and operational demands. Olena Medical is committed to building relationships with surgical centers that value professionalism, accountability, and a collaborative approach to care. By aligning anesthesia services with each facility's needs, the company seeks to help providers focus on what matters most: delivering excellent care to their patients.

For ambulatory surgery centers seeking an anesthesia services partner that combines clinical priorities with an understanding of operational performance, Olena Medical offers a relationship built around shared goals, professional standards, and a commitment to service.
