DALLAS, TX, UNITED STATES, October 23, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ --
DR. K. A. PAUL TO LEAD HISTORIC GLOBAL PEACE AND PRAYER MEETINGS IN DALLAS
The world is watching.
The world is waiting.
The world is praying.
Let Dallas become a voice for peace.

International peace advocate calls on the world to unite beyond borders, religions and politics to end wars and give humanity a chance at peace
At a moment when millions of people around the world are living under the shadow of war, displacement, fear and uncertainty, a powerful call for peace is coming to Dallas.

The Global Peace Initiative announces two major gatherings in the Dallas - Fort Worth area, led by international peace advocate and evangelist Dr. K. A. Paul, bringing together spiritual leaders, business leaders, youth representatives, community leaders and peace advocates around one urgent message:
The world must unite. The wars must end. Humanity must choose peace.

Dr. Paul will lead a press meet on Friday, October 23, 2026, at 3:00 PM, followed by a major Global Peace and Prayer Meeting on Sunday, October 25, from 6:00 PM to 9:00 PM at the Prism Conference Center in Las Colinas, Irving, Texas.

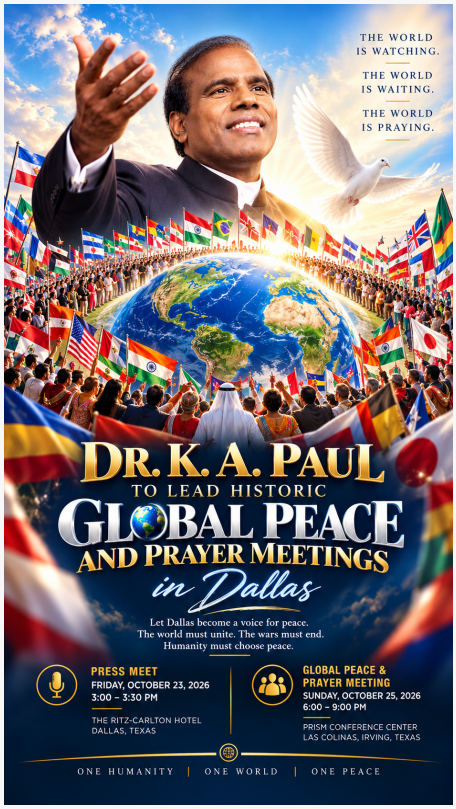

The Sunday gathering is expected to bring together approximately 1,000 spiritual, business, youth and community leaders, united in prayer and advocacy for peace around the world.

TWO DAYS. ONE MESSAGE. ONE HUMAN FAMILY.

PRESS MEET
Friday, October 23, 2026 | 3:00–3:30 PM
The Ritz-Carlton Hotel, Dallas, Texas
GLOBAL PEACE & PRAYER MEETING
Sunday, October 25, 2026 | 6:00–9:00 PM
Prism Conference Center, Las Colinas, Irving, Texas

The gatherings come at a time when armed conflicts continue to create enormous human suffering and economic uncertainty. Recent international peace gatherings associated with Dr. Paul have brought together political, diplomatic, faith, business and community representatives from different nations and religious traditions to discuss dialogue, cooperation and peaceful approaches to conflict.

Dr. K. A. Paul leads a global call for peace in Dallas, bringing people and nations together under one powerful message: One Humanity. One World. One Peace.

A CALL THAT MUST BE HEARD

Dr. K. A. Paul is calling on people of every nationality, religion, political belief and social background to come together in prayer and peaceful action for an end to wars and conflicts around the world.

His message is not directed at one nation.
It is directed at humanity.

> Peace is not a dream for tomm ; it is a responsibility for today. If humanity unites in courage, compassion & prayer, we can end the cycle of war and give future generations a world worth inheriting."
> Dr. K. A. Paul

It is a call to leaders to choose dialogue over destruction, diplomacy over escalation, compassion over hatred and human life over political calculations.
From the streets of cities affected by conflict to families sitting thousands of miles away worried about loved ones, the consequences of war reach far beyond the battlefield.

When bombs fall in one country, the consequences can reach every country.

Fuel prices rise. Food becomes more expensive. Families struggle. Children lose access to education. Businesses face uncertainty. Millions are displaced.

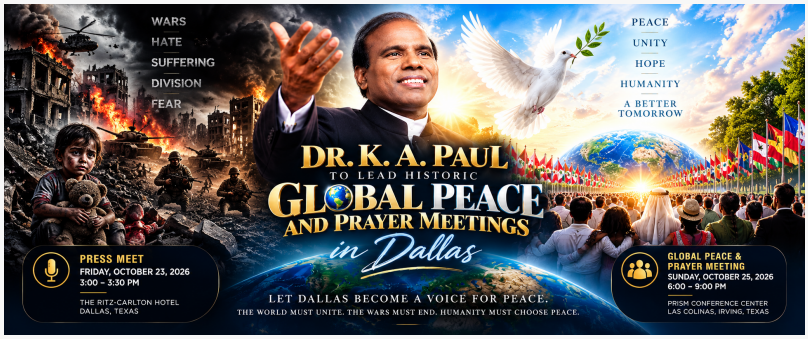

Humanitarian systems come under pressure. And an entire generation can grow up knowing war before they know peace.

The Global Peace Initiative believes that humanity cannot accept this as normal.

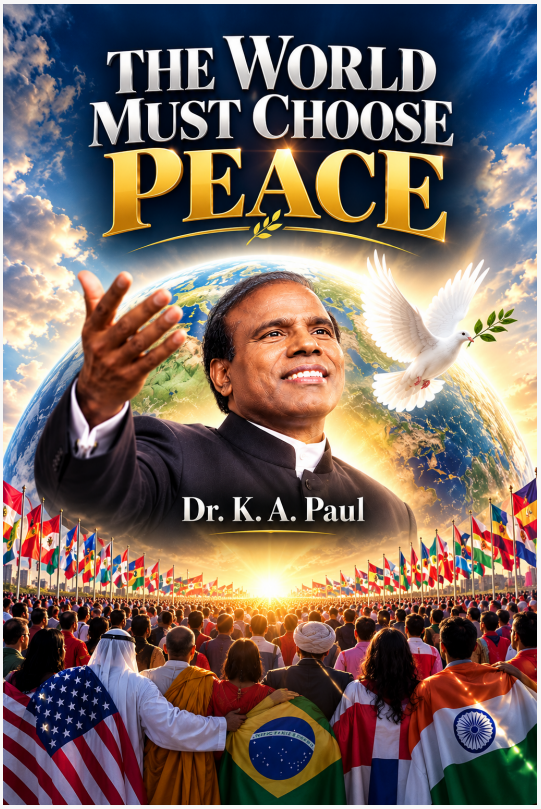

“GIVE PEACE A CHANCE”

The Dallas gatherings will carry a simple but powerful message:
Unite the world.
End the wars.
Give peace a chance.

The Global Peace and Prayer Meeting will call upon people to look beyond the divisions that separate humanity and recognize the fundamental truth that every human being, regardless of nationality, religion, race, language or political identity, deserves the opportunity to live in safety, dignity and peace.
The event will include prayers for world leaders, nations experiencing conflict, families affected by war and communities facing humanitarian crises.
Special prayers will also be offered for individuals and families confronting immigration challenges, health concerns, financial hardship, family difficulties and other personal struggles.

Dr. K. A. Paul stands at the crossroads between war and peace, calling the world to reject hatred and division and unite for peace, hope, and humanity in Dallas.

Dr. K. A. Paul calls on humanity to unite beyond borders and divisions, choose peace over conflict, and build a future where every nation and every generation can live in hope.

FROM INTERNATIONAL DIALOGUE TO A GLOBAL CALL FOR PEACE

Dr. Paul has spent decades advocating for peace, humanitarian assistance and dialogue across national, religious and political boundaries. His Global Peace Initiative describes its mission as promoting grassroots efforts to resolve conflicts and address humanitarian crises.

In September 2026, an international Global Peace Summit in Washington, D.C., brought together representatives associated with political, diplomatic, faith, business and civil-society communities. The gathering focused on international cooperation, humanitarian concerns and peaceful approaches to ongoing conflicts.

Dr. Paul has also publicly described recent conversations with international leaders as part of his continuing peace efforts.
According to statements associated with the initiative, Dr. Paul met Iranian President Masoud Pezeshkian in New York in September 2026 and discussed the need for dialogue and an end to conflict.

Global Peace Ambassadors symbolized by a white dove and olive branches, representing unity, hope, reconciliation, and the worldwide pursuit of peace.

He has also spoken with political leaders in Washington and has promoted a broader peace proposal intended to encourage negotiations and international cooperation.

The Dallas meetings are being presented as the next step in that continuing appeal.

THE COST OF WAR IS PAID BY ORDINARY PEOPLE
For political leaders, war can sometimes be discussed through maps, military strategies, negotiations and national interests.
For ordinary people, war is much more personal.
It is a mother wondering whether her child will return home.
It is a father watching the price of food rise while his income remains the same.
It is a child studying in a classroom while hearing explosions outside.
It is a family leaving behind its home with nothing but what it can carry.
It is an elderly person asking whether peace will return before the end of their life.
It is a young person wondering whether their future will be defined by opportunity, or conflict.
The Global Peace Initiative believes these human stories must never disappear behind political headlines.
Every statistic represents a human being.
Every refugee has a story.
Every destroyed home was once someone's safe place.

Every child caught in war represents a future that humanity has a responsibility to protect.
That is why the Dallas gathering will not simply be a meeting.
It is intended to be a moral appeal to the conscience of the world.

A MESSAGE TO WORLD LEADERS

The Global Peace Initiative is calling upon presidents, prime ministers, lawmakers, diplomats, military leaders, religious leaders, business leaders and civil-society organizations to strengthen peaceful dialogue and pursue every credible opportunity to prevent further loss of life.
The message is simple:
Talk before you fight.
Negotiate before you destroy.
Forgive before hatred becomes permanent.
Choose humanity before history judges us.
The initiative believes that military power alone cannot create lasting peace.
Peace requires courage.
Peace requires leadership.
Peace requires patience.
Peace requires people who are willing to sit across the table from those with whom they disagree.
And above all, peace requires the willingness to recognize that no political victory can compensate for the loss of innocent human life.

A ROLE FOR BUSINESS AND YOUTH

The Dallas gathering will also emphasize the responsibility of business and youth leaders in building a peaceful future.
Business leaders have the ability to create jobs, strengthen communities and build bridges across borders.
Young people represent the generation that will inherit the world being shaped today.
The Global Peace Initiative is therefore calling upon young people not to become prisoners of hatred inherited from previous generations.
Instead, they are being encouraged to become ambassadors of dialogue, compassion, understanding and reconciliation.
The next generation should inherit schools, not battlefields.
Hospitals, not bomb shelters.
Opportunities, not fear.
Hope, not hatred.

A PRAYER THAT CROSSES EVERY BORDER

The Sunday gathering will bring together people from different walks of life in a shared spiritual appeal for peace.

Prayer, in this context, is being presented not as a substitute for diplomacy or humanitarian action, but as a source of moral courage and a reminder of humanity's shared responsibility.
The Global Peace Initiative believes that when people pray together, they can begin to see beyond the labels that divide them.
A Christian can pray beside a Muslim.
A Hindu can pray beside a Jew.
A believer can stand beside someone from another tradition.
A business leader can stand beside a student.
A political supporter can stand beside someone who supports another political party.
Because before we are divided by ideology, we are united by our humanity.

DALLAS: A STAGE FOR A GLOBAL MESSAGE

Dallas is more than the location of these gatherings.
It is being positioned as a stage from which a message can travel across America and around the world.
The Global Peace Initiative is inviting Dallas-area media organizations, journalists, community leaders, faith leaders, business leaders and youth representatives to participate, report on the event and help carry the message beyond the conference hall.
The organizers believe the world does not need another argument.
The world needs a movement for peace.
It does not need more walls between communities.
It needs bridges.
It does not need another generation taught to hate.
It needs a generation taught to understand.
And it does not need leaders who measure success only by power.
It needs leaders who measure success by the lives they save.

AN INVITATION TO THE MEDIA

Dr. K. A. Paul and the Global Peace Initiative invite Dallas-area and international media organizations to attend the press meet, interview participating leaders and cover the Global Peace and Prayer Meeting.

THE MESSAGE TO THE WORLD

The world has enough weapons.
Enough hatred.
Enough fear.
Enough destruction.
Enough families waiting for peace.
Enough children growing up surrounded by conflict.

It is time to ask a different question:

What would happen if humanity finally decided that peace was not an impossible dream - but an urgent responsibility?
What if nations chose dialogue before destruction?
What if leaders crossed political boundaries to save lives?
What if religions became bridges instead of battle lines?
What if businesses invested more heavily in communities than conflicts?
What if young people inherited a world where cooperation was stronger than hatred?
What if billions of ordinary people decided that peace was worth standing for?
Perhaps the greatest movement in human history would begin not in a parliament, not in a military command center and not in a corporate boardroom—but in the hearts of ordinary people.
That is the hope behind the Dallas gathering.
One prayer can inspire a family.
One family can inspire a community.
One community can inspire a nation.
And nations united for peace can change the course of history.
The Global Peace Initiative believes the time has come for the world to choose that path.
Not tomorrow.
Now.
Not after another war.
Before another life is lost.
Not after another generation suffers.
Before the next child becomes a victim of conflict.
The call from Dallas is therefore not merely an invitation to attend an event.
It is an invitation to stand for humanity.
Stand for peace.
Pray for peace.
Work for peace.

Speak for peace.
Build peace.
Because the future of humanity cannot be written by war alone.
The future must be written by those courageous enough to choose peace.

OUR MESSAGE IS SIMPLE:

UNITE THE WORLD.
END THE WARS.
GIVE PEACE A CHANCE.
