Construction Corps Expands Tampa Bay Design-Build Services With New Service Pages and Homeowner Guides

Clearwater design-build GC adds five service pages and plans a Tampa and St. Petersburg guide series on permits, flood zones, historic districts, and ADU rules.

Construction Corps a Certified Veteran Owned General Contractor Serving the Tampa Bay Area

CLEARWATER, FL, UNITED STATES, November 16, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Homeowners across Tampa Bay can now find city-specific building rules, permitting and flood guidance, and published 2026 pricing in one place, from one licensed design-build company. Construction Corps, Inc., a veteran-owned design-build general contractor based in Clearwater, has added five new service pages to constructioncorps.com and has a six-part Tampa and St. Petersburg homeowner guide series scheduled to publish on its blog.

Building rules differ from city to city across the bay. Tampa and St. Petersburg each have their own historic district reviews, ADU rules, and permit fee schedules, and flood zone designations shape what can be built on many lots. The new pages and guides are organized by city so homeowners can start with the rules that apply to their property.

The five new service pages are:

- Storm Damage Rebuild
- Design-Build Tampa Bay
- Custom Home Builder
- ADU Builder St. Petersburg
- ADU Builder Tampa

The six-part homeowner guide series is scheduled to publish together on the Construction Corps blog. The guides cover building in Tampa and Hillsborough County, including permits and flood rules; Tampa historic districts; St. Petersburg historic districts and landmarks; ADU rules in Tampa compared with St. Petersburg; Tampa Bay building permit fees compared; and Tampa Bay flood zones explained.

Construction Corps also publishes 2026 price ranges on its online estimator. The ranges include design, engineering, permitting, and all trades: home additions from $35K to $725K, accessory dwelling units (ADUs) from $95K to $725K+, and custom new builds from $625K to $3.5M+.

"We get the same questions every week. What will the city let me build? What does the flood zone mean for my plans? What's this going to cost? So we put the answers on the site, by city, with real price ranges. Homeowners can read it before they ever talk to us. When they're ready, one company handles the design, the engineering, the permits, and the build," said Matt Thompson, Founder and CEO of Construction Corps.

Construction Corps serves homeowners in Pinellas, Hillsborough, and Pasco counties. Homeowners can review the new service pages and the estimator at constructioncorps.com.
